Reimagine Jobs Showcase Highlights Sustainable Construction Opportunities in Southwestern Pennsylvania – Featuring Michael Keaton’s Company Nexii

Beaver, Pa. – A panel discussion TONIGHT will highlight the future of jobs and opportunities in the sustainable construction sector in Southwest Pennsylvania. Michael Keaton’s green construction technology Nexxi has joined the panel!

The program is the fifth in a series of forums offered by the ReImagine Jobs Showcase, a website that was launched in September of 2020. The goal of the series is to highlight sustainable economic development opportunities in each of the website’s nine green economy sectors in Southwest Pennsylvania.

Media is invited to attend by joining on Zoom or Facebook.

April 28, 2021 – 7 p.m.

Tonight’s panelists include:

Leslie Montgomery of Pittsburgh Green Building Alliance will be the moderator. Speakers are as follows:

- Craig Rippole, Trinity Commercial Development, Nexii
- Zosia Brown, senior sustainability advisor, Nexii
- Jeff Murray, Cannon Design
- Monika Serrano, Turner Construction
- Andrew Ellsworth, Doors Unhinged

The ReImagine Jobs Showcase highlights the hundreds of sustainable jobs available in the region thanks to the work underway by groups and leaders to move the region toward employment and careers that support workers and families, communities and the environment. For job seekers, educators, investors and community members, it provides information on and opportunities in nine green economy sectors.

Stay tuned for the Upcoming Showcase Panels on the last Wednesday of each month:

- Conservation
- Recreation and Tourism
- Grid and Broadband
- Sustainable Construction
- Green Chemistry and Manufacturing
- Workforce Development

This event is a partnership between the League of Women Voters of Pennsylvania, The Climate Reality Project, ReImagine Beaver County, Communities First Sewickley Valley, Breathe Project and ReImagine the Turtle Creek Watershed & Airshed Communities Plus.
